Joining the CSR alliance "Responsible Business Alliance" (former EICC)

Nikon Corporation (Nikon) has joined the world's largest industry coalition dedicated to electronics supply chain responsibility, the Responsible Business Alliance (referred to as the RBA, with its headquarters located in the state of Virginia, U.S.A., and formerly known as the Electronic Industry Citizenship Coalition [EICC]).

The RBA was founded in 2004 as a CSR coalition, committed to supporting the wellbeing and assuring the rights of workers and communities throughout the global electronics supply chain. Currently, the RBA is comprised of more than 120 companies, including electronics, auto and retail. The RBA has established a code of conduct that states a firm commitment to improving the working environment, supporting the rights and wellbeing of employees, while also fulfilling environmental and ethical responsibilities within the supply chains of all member companies.

Nikon has been advancing CSR activities on a group-wide basis, applying our corporate philosophy of "Trustworthiness and Creativity". From now on, we will also commit to upholding the RBA's code of conduct, and continue to take further steps to improve the aforementioned social issues in supply chains along with procurement partners, while actively integrating the valuable knowledge and resources that the RBA accumulated.
